Vinho Verde DOC

Vinho Verde, produced in the Demarcated Region of Vinhos Verdes in Portugal, is a denomination of controlled origin whose demarcation dates back to 1908. Vinho Verde is unique in the world. Naturally light and fresh, produced in the province of Minho in the north-west of Portugal, a geographically well-located coastal region for the production of excellent white wines. Cradle of the charismatic variety Alvarinho and producer of unique batch wines, the Region of the Vinhos Verdes offers a unique set of very gastronomic wines.

Vinho Verde is a fruity wine, easy to drink, good as an aperitif or in harmony with light and balanced meals: salads, fish, seafood, white meat, tapas, sushi, sashimi and others. International dishes.

Vinho Frisante

Wine produced with grapes chosen from the best traditional grape varieties, with skin pre-maceration and fermentation in stainless steel tanks at 16°C for 16 days. In the mouth it is fresh and acidic with a good persistence and presence of well integrated CO2. It is a wine with a young, light and fruity character, with an acidula mouth and quite fresh. Very balanced. Excellent to accompany seafood dishes and fish, pasta and salads.

White and Red Table Wine

Portugal, despite its Atlantic location in the extreme south-west of Europe, belongs to the Mediterranean world where the culture of the vine and wine plays a predominant role, and where white wines are produced by geography, climate, history, and cultural tradition and genetic inheritance. Reds and rosés of the most varied varieties and of great quality are being much appreciated.

Table Wine

They are soft and aromatic wines where floral and fruity notes predominate. They are usually provided with a balanced acidity and a low alcoholic strength.

These wines are light and crystalline, lightly carbonated, and are fresh and elegant.

These wines should be drunk young and fresh. They are ideal partners for the summer, although they can and should be consumed throughout the year with appetizers, salads and fish and seafood dishes. They also accompany South Asian cuisine well.
